

GET REAL: FINANCIAL DECISIONS IN THE REAL WORLD.

EDUCATION & EARNING; SAVING & INVESTING; CREDIT

What DO your teens know about money? What SHOULD they know?

Get Real: Financial Decisions in the Real World is a multi-media financial education program designed specifically for teens. Through Get Real, teens learn from the experience of actual young adults from a range of backgrounds and communities. In Get Real, teens learn how young adults handle their first pay check, budget their money, build their credit record, save and invest in the “real world.”

The Get Real program includes step by step instructions for educators and referrals for question and answer support from financial professionals. The Get Real program, materials, video and training are all available free of charge for a limited number of qualified youth programs. Some restrictions apply. Some programs may be eligible for saving or educational incentives for program participants.

The Get Real program is produced by the Economic Awareness Council (EAC) and is supported through a grant from the Certified Financial Planner Board of Standards.

To request a program sample, contact the EAC at (630)740-6831 or getreal@econcouncil.org.
